ABSTRACT

A study of the information needs of rural services clientele was undertaken in New Mexico to define the services that the state library should provide. A survey about information needs was prepared and mailed to post office box holders, randomly selected, in rural areas of the state. In all, 1,200 surveys were distributed. Responses were received from 16 percent (195). Ninety percent of those returning surveys use public, school, or college library services. Reading interests cover a broad range of subjects and reading levels, and are consistent throughout the state. One hundred and thirteen households use the bookmobiles, and most prefer afternoon stops. Respondents indicated that videos were the service they would most like to see added, with books on tape and large print materials following. Costs of operating the bookmobiles were also calculated. The survey and cost study resulted in recommendations for improvement of the services and facilities, mainly new bookmobiles, to improve rural services. A timeline for accomplishing the recommendations is included. Appendixes contain the questionnaire, an analysis of responses, cost data, statistics for 1991-92, and a vehicle inventory. (SLD)

RURAL SERVICES STUDY

BACKGROUND:

The State Library has provided direct rural library services since 1929 when the New Mexico Legislature created the agency to provide extension services. During the early years, the service provided was the loan of book collections to libraries where they existed, and to schools and organizations where they did not.

In 1956, using funds from the Library Services Act, the State Library established a regional bookmobile system serving the states rural population. The service consisted of regularly scheduled visits to established "stops" where individuals could board the bookmobile and make their selection from the 2500-3000 volumes the vehicle carried. Over the years, attempts were made to provide the clientele with access to "library-related programming." The programming included photography workshops, the showing of films, story hours, and crafts classes. While some of these were offered over a period of time, all were eventually abandoned for a number of reasons. Those recorded are 1) relatively short duration of the bookmobile stop; 2) inadequate staff to handle both the programming and the selection/circulation assistance required by those selecting books; 3) lack of suitable space for showing of films; 4) lack of interest from individuals using the bookmobile; and 5) insufficient numbers of individuals using the bookmobile at the stop.

In the mid 1970s, the books-by-mail program was established to augment the bookmobile service. Originally, the program was intended for those rural citizens who lived too distant from the bookmobile stops. The service offered was a catalog of materials from which the individual could make their selections. The books selected were then mailed to the individual.

Together, the bookmobiles and the books-by-mail service comprise the State Library's Rural Services Program.

PURPOSE:

Impetus for the study came at a time when the State Library was looking critically at all of its programs and activities, preparatory to writing an agency-wide strategic plan. The result was the Library's Strategic Plan for 1991/1992 which under Goal 1, Objective 1, identified "a study of the information needs of rural services clientele, leading to a possible reorganization of the program" as a major task.

There were other reasons as well. First, the cost of the bookmobile program which is supported primarily with federal funds, has increased to the point where it requires eighty percent of the available LSCA Title I funds. Secondly, we estimate that the rural services program serves three percent of the eligible population -- the program needs to serve a greater number of people! Finally, there is the question of vehicle replacement. The Library has made many attempts over the years to obtain state funding for the purchase of bookmobiles but it has never been successful in doing so. The problem has become increasingly more difficult as the cost of the program absorbs more and more of the available federal funds. The last vehicle purchased (1990) could only be bought after the builder agreed to accept several payments spread over two fiscal years.

The Library has managed to replace bookmobiles when they are about 11-12 years old. Keeping them on the road that long (national standards indicate they should be replaced every 6-8 years) has increased costs because of the need for more frequent and serious maintenance and repairs. It also places staff in a dangerous position when they take increasingly unreliable vehicles on the road. Breakdowns do happen and often they occur in isolated areas with no assistance available.

STUDY GROUP:

The Study Group was composed of those members of the State Library staff who developed the rural services objectives and tasks for the Strategic Plan. The group was augmented by the addition of Betsy McIntosh of El Rito who was invited to participate because of her expressed interest in rural library services. Staff comprising the group were:

Mark Adams
Paul Agriesti
John Anaya
Fred Barraza
Patricia Casteel
Mary Ann Flores

Elaine Goodman
Katherine Higgins
Dan Monrreal
Edward "Corky" Montoya
Judy Sanchez
Ingrid Vollnhofer

While all members of the group contributed to the discussions and in the development of the survey instrument, individual note must be taken of the effort Mark Adams made to assure that the survey was statistically correct.

STUDY CHARGE:

The Rural Services Study Group was charged with the preparation of a study of the informational needs of the rural clientele, and to define what the State Library services to the rural citizens included.

Components of the study were to be:

1. Purpose of Rural Services
2. Identification of the Clientele Served
3. Identification of the Services Offered
4. Identification of Clientele Needs/Wants
5. Identification of Possible Expanded Services
6. Statement of the Problems Encountered in both the operation of the vehicles and in acquiring replacement vehicles.
7. Recommendations

GETTING STARTED:

The Study Group, with the exception of Mrs. McIntosh, had worked together previously in identifying objectives and tasks for the rural services program and had already identified issues that required being addressed. Much of the group time therefore was spent in discussing and developing a survey instrument.

The resultant survey was distributed to a random selection of post offices. Of the fifty-nine post offices that are located in the bookmobile service areas, twenty were selected (five in each of the four areas). Surveys were mailed to fifty box holders in each of the twenty post offices. Additionally, in each of the four areas, fifty surveys were sent to individuals receiving their mail on rural routes. Altogether, 1200 surveys were distributed.

SURVEY RESULTS:

The survey was mailed in March, 1992. Three weeks were allowed for their return. At the period's end, sixteen percent or 195 of the 1200 surveys distributed had been returned.

Complete results appear as an appendix to this document. Briefly, the survey indicated:

1. Ninety percent of the households returning the survey make use of library services, either public, school or college. Of the respondents, 173 households indicated they used libraries; 20 households did not use any library services. 53 respondents reported using school libraries; 31 reported using college libraries; and 116 reported using public libraries.

Many respondents reporting use of public libraries indicate traveling varying distances to use their services -- distances ranging from ten miles to over 80 miles, one way. Interestingly, the individual indicating the need to travel over 80 miles one way did not appear to think that excessive; rather, it seemed that they were willing to go that distance when necessary but felt the bookmobiles provided an important service in between trips. Also there is evidence that those who appeared to feel that distances of five to ten miles to meet bookmobile stops excessive were citizens who either did not have transportation or were aged. Reasons most often given for not using rural services were: 1) stop times inconvenient; and 2) a lack of knowledge of the program -- how to use it, who can use it and when and where it can be used, etc.

2. The ages of respondents to the survey ranged from less than one year (7 months) to 90 years old. 109 households representing 509 individuals responded to the survey. The mean age (average of the 509 ages) was 35.4 years old. In determining the median age, (the set of ages that fall in the middle of a ranked order), and the mode age, (the set of ages where the largest number of respondents were), the data was grouped in increments of ten years. e.g. 0-9, 10-19, ...90-99. In this survey, the median age was in the 30-39 range. The mode was in the 0-9 range.
3. Nearly all respondents indicated that they or some member of their household used the services of a library. Fifty-three reported using school libraries; 31 reported using college library services; and 116 said they used the services of public libraries. Many reported using more than one type of library.
4. Reading interests cover a broad range of subjects and reading levels. Greatest interest was expressed in Southwest materials -- followed in diminishing order (from most frequently mentioned to least frequently mentioned) by Arts and Crafts; Farming; Gardening; Ranching; Serious Fiction and Classics; Westerns; Mysteries; Reference; Environmental Concerns; Biography; Consumer Information; Religion and Inspiration; Romance; Picture Books; Health Care; Business Information; Career and Job Skills; Science Fiction; Politics; Spanish Language Materials; and New Age.

These reading interests did not differ in the four service areas -- they are uniform throughout the areas surveyed.

5. Fifty households reported owning personal computers; ten of these have modems. Thirty-six households reported having "access" to FAX.
6. One hundred and thirteen households indicated that they used the bookmobiles; 77 indicated that they did not.

Seventy households indicated that they used books-by-mail; 104 said they did not.

There were a number who said they used both; and, there were those who did not use either.

Reasons given for not using the bookmobile and/or books-by-mail programs included: 1) hours were not convenient; 2) were not aware of the program; 3) stops were too far away; 4) choice of materials was limited; 5) thought it was only for children; and 6) were not interested or had no time for reading.

The reason most often given was that the hours the bookmobile was available was not convenient.

7. Responses most often given to the question asking what information or materials was difficult to obtain were: 1) current affairs; 2) current encyclopedias; 3) reference materials; 4) medical information; and 5) current environmental data.
8. The majority of households (65) preferred afternoon stops; this was followed by 58 households that preferred morning stops. Thirty-six households wanted evening stops and 33 households would like weekend stops.
9. Responses to the question asking why respondents did not use the rural services program were varied but included: 1) stop times were inconvenient; 2) a lack of knowledge of the program; 3) a preference for using nearby libraries; and 4) insufficient time for or a lack of interest in reading.
10. Asked what services they would like to see offered, the respondents requested: 1) videos; 2) books on tape; 3) large print materials; 4) computer programs; and 5) a copy machine.
11. There were few comments, criticisms or suggestions made. Included were: 1) stop times are not convenient; 2) the stop schedule is not known; and 3) "YOU NEED A NEW BOOK-MOBILE."

COSTS:

A search of the library literature did not produce a widely accepted method of determining program costs. Rather, what the literature did reveal is that there is a lack of cost data for bookmobile and books-by-mail programs nationally.

To determine the cost of the New Mexico rural service program, the 1) total operational costs; 2) the local government contributions; 3) the cost of the support services provided by other units of the State Library; and 4) the cost of the vehicles, prorated over their life expectancy, were totaled; then divided by the number of borrowers and the number of circulations to provide a per unit cost.

All of the four items above were totaled, yielding a program cost of $522,704.03 for the 91/92 fiscal year. For both units of the rural services program, the per circulation cost was determined to be $2.50; the cost per borrower is $55.17. Individually, the per circulation cost of the bookmobiles is $2.44; the cost per borrower is $56.77. For books-by-mail, the per circulation cost is $2.93 and the cost per borrower, $47.93. (See table below).

	Bookmobiles	Books-By-Mail	Both Programs
Per Circulation:	$ 2.44	$ 2.93	$ 2.50
Per Borrower Cost:	$56.77	$47.93	$55.17

RECOMMENDATIONS:

As a result of the data obtained in the rural services study and survey of users, the following recommendations are made. They are grouped according to subject:

Public Awareness (Publicity):

1. We recommend that a major publicity campaign be undertaken. This should be done with the advice and assistance of the Public Information Officer. This is considered important for two reasons. First many of the survey respondents indicated that they were not aware of the rural services program, giving that as the reason for their not making use of the program. Secondly, it is estimated that the program serves approximately three percent of the state's eligible rural population -- every effort should be made to reach a greater number!

Vehicles (Acquisition):

2. For the past four legislative sessions, the Library has been unable to obtain state funding for the replacement of bookmobiles. Bookmobiles have been kept in operation past the point when it is safe or economical to do so.

It is important that the Library create an atmosphere which allows for the purchase of vehicles when they are needed without hassle. If possible, a viable replacement schedule should be put in place.

Programming:

3. Review the bookmobile stop schedules and make appropriate changes where indicated. This should include an analysis of the survey data that deals with stop times and make any adjustments possible that suit the greatest number of users. If possible experiment with weekend and evening hours and consider longer and more centralized stops which would allow time for reference, reader's advisory assistance and perhaps some programming.
4. Add a small number of videos to the bookmobile collections on a trial basis and evaluate their use.
5. In areas where they would be used, carry a selection of large-print books for readers with sight problems.
6. All bookmobiles should carry a set of encyclopedias.
7. Place a collection of appropriate ready reference materials on each bookmobile. This should be done with the assistance of Development and Reference staff.
8. Evaluate the rural services participation in the summer reading program. Along with the Development staff, determine what other programming might be appropriate in order to broaden access to library services.
9. Explore the possibility of reactivating the advisory groups that formerly existed in each service area. They could be a powerful support group in addition to providing citizen input for the program.

Procedures:

10. The collections of both the bookmobiles and the books-by-mail programs should be analyzed to assure that they meet the needs of the rural citizens as expressed in the survey.
11. Once the collections are analyzed, the rural services books and materials selection policies should be updated, formatted according to the State Library's policy statement; then, made a part of that document.
12. The role of the rural services program should be determined -- doing so with the assistance of the Development staff to assure that the program's relationship to statewide library development is identified and understood.
13. The rural services policies and procedures manuals should be rewritten and followed uniformly in all four service areas. The rules should be simplified in order to allow access to as large a number of users as is possible.

Training:

14. Training should be provided to the bookmobile staff to assure they have the necessary knowledge to address these recommendations. This could be done in a series of staff workshops conducted by the Development and Reference staff.

Additional Study and Follow-Up:

15. A study should be made of the mail order services provided in other states. This should be done in order that credible comparisons can be made when considering services and costs in the delivery of library services by bookmobile and by mail order programs.
16. Each of the fifteen recommendations made in this document should be addressed by July 1, 1993 and the result of each be made a part of this document. This document and the follow-up activity is to be forwarded to the Management Team.

17. Conduct an experiment linking a rural services patron having modem capability to the the State Library's electronic bulletin board.
18. Assure that the four rural services headquarters have the equipment necessary to participate in SALSA.

RURAL LIBRARY SERVICES SURVEY

The New Mexico State Library provides service to rural residents who do not have access to a local library. The service is provided via four bookmobiles, head-quartered in Cimarron, Belen, Tucumcari and Fort Bayard. They make monthly stops in 28 of the 33 New Mexico counties. The Books-by-Mail program is a supplemental service, head-quartered in Santa Fe, which provides popular paperback titles through quarterly catalogs.

Our purpose in undertaking this survey is to determine how well we are meeting the library needs of rural citizens and to obtain data for future program directions. Your assistance in completing and returning this postage-paid questionnaire is appreciated.

7. The people with the bookmobile have always been helpful and courteous.

8. Would like to know more about the BBM program. (Nathan and Zerelda Biffle, Rt 1, Box 110, San Jon, 88434)

9. The bookmobile is the only way we can get fresh supply of reading and learning material and keep it long enough to learn the material in the books.

10. I think it is wonderful.

11. It's a great program and used widely in Mosquero by all ages.

12. We have enjoyed the service offered by the BBM programs as we found it was not always convenient to meet the bookmobile.

13. I know that "Books-on-Tape are provided through the library in Amarillo, Texas. With the distances that people have to drive out here it is a great use of time to be able to listen to a book while driving. "Books-on-tape" are books that are read in there entirety. We now rent them but they are quite expensive, $17.50 for 1 month rental. It would be absolutely great if you could provide them through the bookmobile or BBM.

15. Very pleased with both! Do use BBM more than bookmobile lately.

16. Have greatly enjoyed the convenience of BBM--and so fast. Logan.

great service for our children. Keep up the good work!

Lake Arthur.

19. Bookmobile is a very good service--please continue.

20. Haven't used BBM--bookmobile only occasionally. I can never remember the dates or hours.

The personnel on our bookmobile route were/are excellent in taking care of our reading needs. They are friendly, courteous and very professional. Thank you for this wonderful service to the rural community. I pray this program will be able to continue--in spite of all the state's dropping many services, due to lack of funds.

22. I would like a Bolivian cookbook. All my efforts to locate a book like this have failed. (Melinda Jackson, Lake Arthur)

23. Sometimes the bookmobile fails to show up in a certain month, due to bad weather or because it needs to be repaired. Wouldn't it be possible to make it up on a following week. Thank you! Oh! It would be helpful if the bookmobile would come, say, on a Wednesday, sometimes. Instead of only on Tuesdays!

Corona.

24. I am very thankful for the bookmobile service. We are over 100 miles from any city large enough to buy books. Our school is small so funds are too, and I feel the bookmobile is a big help to any student willing to take advantage of it. (Hi Danny, we miss you)

25. We live 80 miles from a public library. BBM keeps us in touch with reading material. I use BBM to supplement our school library. This is a wonderful service. My work hours conflict with bookmobile times, but I have enjoyed their services in past years. Please continue these valuable programs for the many rural areas of the state.

26. I really appreciate both programs. So much is made available to "ruralites" that otherwise would be unavailable. When one does get to town, they don't really have time to seek out a library. I think both programs are wonderful.

27. I have no complaints. Both are very good programs. My only problems are getting list of books on subject matter. We have a 16 yr. old grandson, so we will need more reading material during summer. Corona has no public library and a small school library. We in our home have encyclopedias and some ref. books and a good mixture of reading material, Reader's Digest, Newsweek and newspapers. But we as a (?) do read. WE DO ENJOY THE STATE LIBRARY BBM.

28. Both my wife and I will be studying by correspondence and will welcome this possibility of accessing books. Do you know of any freeware/shareware library management program suited to the Corona School library (some 400 volumes, microcomputer-based)? Thank you, Sam Dubois, Corona Schools, 505-8491711.

3. I really enjoy the books that are provided by the Bookmobile, but find it very inconvenient that the Bookmobile comes only once a month and then only stays a short time. I much more proffered it when Georgia Kuykendall had the Bookmobile stationed at her home (which was 9 yrs ago). If we could ever do that again, I would be more than glad to have it at my house, which is on the Elementary school road, and every knows where I live.

12. I use the bookmobile in Ocate, NM and find it very good.

13. I was not aware of BBM. Please send me information on this service. (Patricia Littleton, PO Box 167, Ocate, 87734)

14. The bookmobile is very important to children. In this rural area we would not be able to get to read most of the books we have. If it's for enjoyment or for information on a certain subject.

15. My husband and I moved from Colorado to a rural area of NM just recently. I love to read so I will be using the bookmobile. I would like to read a book titled--"Satan exposed". Mimbres.

12. I need a catalog of titles of books and videos available. Can you please send also a schedule of the bookmobile. (Iona Vickers, Box 132, Mimbres, 88049)

Mayhill.

13. Both programs are wonderful and the only way I and most of the people I know have access to reading material. I used to get BBM when we lived on a ranch 90 miles from town and you can not believe how important it was to my life. Keep up the good work.

14. Being as how I pay NM taxes (income and other), I feel that we should be able to use BBM as well as bookmobile. We are 40 miles from the nearest public library.

15. I think the bookmobile is great--it serves my needs quite well and it makes the single difference between my complete enjoyment of living in a rural area vs hating it.

16. The bookmobile is our only source of our readings and are the nicest people and are so helpful.

17. I think it's good for our small areas to be able to have literature to read and return at no expense. Thank you.

Cloudcroft.

18. Included is a list of some of the books I have ordered or would like to order from BBM, but usually haven't gotten them.

19. More variety.

20. A neighbor of mine uses the BBM and has ordered books for me. It's an excellent program. We live on an unpaved road, 9 miles from the highway, so it's not likely the bookmobile could come to us. But people around Mayhill appreciate it greatly. Both programs are good.

21. Don't know when it comes to Cloudcroft.

Regina.

1. The bookmobile comes to our area late in the month, this is usually the time of storms here. It's difficult to get into town when the roads are either muddy or snow-packed. A change of schedule would be very helpful.

2. I love the bookmobile service--I have been able to start a small business in arts and crafts with information I got there. The staff is very helpful--very nice people.

3. Two things have enriched my solitary confinement far beyond

my expectations--the bookmobile and long nature walks. It's like Christmas eleven times a year on the 4th Tuesday! Jean Taylor, Judy and Mara are kind and patient toward all comers. Having frequented many libraries--I've never come across such dedicated personnel. Through thhkk I learned how to build my own solar adobe, grow vegis the year around, heat (safely) with wood, harvest edible wild plants--and most importantly--nourish my soul! (next to "Daniel Monrreal": You must be a great boss!)

4. We really like the convenience of the Bookmobile. My son needs a book a day rread to him for school. With the bookmobile, he can have different books. Thanks.

5. Our bookmobile which comes through Regina once a month has been very useful, and willing to order any information requested (and submit by mail). The Bookmobile is really a vital service out here!

6. Sure enjoy reading all the books. Like the no pressure approach to overdue books. Makes us feel that we have your trust. Something we don't abuse.

7. Our bookmobile person is fantastic and is always such a help. Without this service I would rarely get a chance to enjoy the books I enjoy. Our own town library is so small and I've already used all its books. This is such an important part of helping people who live in the sticks! (: Thanks.

8. The bookmobile is a great program for young and old, everybody reads and being that Regina is located in a rural area, it is difficult for many people to get to a library in Alb. or Santa Fe or wherever. If the bookmobile is discontinued in this area then many people will be unable to get books to read and this would be a crime.

Pie Town.

9. The people working the bookmobile are the most courteous and helpful I have ever met.

10. Bookmobile excellent service for people in remote areas. Please continue this service.

11. I'm real happy with the service, extra care they take in searching for speciiquest books, selection of books is good and always seems to be changing--Thanks a lot!

12. I really like BBM. It lets me choose my own time for returning my library books. Sometimes it's hard enough just to get to my mailbox--but impossible to get to town to meet the bookmobile at a specific time. Thank you for BBM.

13. The service provided is most useful in that, we live 80 (one way) miles or so from a library (Public) and difficult to fit in our agenda when shopping in larger towns or leaving children unattended if we were to go just to get to a library or if closed on Sunday's/holidays. The service provided is most excellent by your personnel, most courteous and helpful, too.

14. Keep it up! Having the bookmobile come to Pie Town is a great bonus to living here!

15. We used BBM in the 50's when it was necessary for our sons to be homeschooled for 4 years and we were pleased. Mail day with a box of books was special.

16. I like the way (it) is now.

17. Thank you thank you for the BBM! I'd like more "serious" books since I don't read westerns mysteries or love lorn.

The Governor's budget recommendations included the replacement vehicle. But neither bill was passed by the Legislature.
